An ironic twist in city financing has singled out Vic-toria's victims of the depression as the hapless benefactors of the victims of the recession Council's unpremeditated stirring of the seles of the "Great Depression" came when it closed off its budget adjust-ments by accepting City Manager Cecil Wyatt's suggestion that the 1961-62 winter works program be paid for from land sales revenue

Experimenters recently inserted a tiny electrode into a donkey's brain. It was carefully placed in the brain's "reward area"—a place where a small electric shock feels pleasant.

The donkey wore a collar with a prism, a photoelectric eye, a make-break switch, a battery, and a small circuit for sending a tiny current into the "reward area" of the donkey's brain.

ported in the April Harper's magazine, "the photo-electric eye activated the switch which turned on the current and administered the ... reward.

"If the donkey veered in either direction or stood still, the switch turned the current off again. Thus accounted, the joyful donkey trotted straight ahead, up hill, down dale, even across a mountain, neither straying nor lagging, to its predestined goal—a substation some five miles away

"There the prism was reversed—whereupon the donkey retraced its arduous course over the mountain and back to its starting place."

This is what they call ESB—electrical stimulation of the brain. It works for donkeys, and for rats, cats, monkeys and people—any creature with Laboratory animals like ESB so much that they will press a button thousands of times a day to give themselves an electrical thrill. One monkey pressed the lever 200,000 times in a day.

ESB isn't habit/forming. It doesn't leave the recipient feeling tired or jaded. I would hate to hear a television commercial for it.

It has been used on some patients who are suffering great pain, to make them happy.

"We need not feel sorry for the donkey," the Brechers remark. "It was no doubt enjoying a de-lightful ESB experience as it jogged along. But the thought of a human being . _ reduced to an automation for someone else's benefit is shocking to the conscience of anyone adhering to democratic or Judaeo-Christian ethical traditions."

It isn't likely to happen in that way. Nobody can sink an electrode in your skull without your getting to know about it.

However, researchers may produce non-habit-forming drugs that will do the same thing. Some scientists could be working on the project now. Given the right kind of pill, dictators and dem-agogues may be able to command the willing obedience of millions of people in return for a daily supply of chemical kicks.

Is this fantastic? Maybe. But laboratory tests show this brain-thrill table just as strong a motive as hunger and sex.

THE REDAY, MAY 11, 1961 of

Mr. Green's Hope

EXTERNAL AFFAIRS Minister Howard Green's urgent suggestion before the NATO foreign ministers' meeting in Oslo that the United States substitute negotiations for any further unilateral action in its dealings with Cuba must not be taken as a petty attempt to tweak the tail feathers of the American eagle.

Nor should it be viewed by Dr. Castro as evidence that Canada is preparing to ally itself to his new Communist state. Rather should it he accepted for what it is—a timely warning to all sides that the days of gunboat diplomacy are past.

Few of the world's statesmen today are as dedicated to the cause of peace and the relaxation of international tensions as Mr. Green. It is perhaps this single-minded devotion to such a goal that enables him to see more clearly than his NATO associates many of whom are still hampered by the blinkers of national pride—the awful implications of any individual state acting on its own either in this hemisphere or any other.

What Mr. Green has proposed is a return to the principles upon which the United Nations was built —and to which it still subscribes. Until such an ideal is wholeheartedly accepted by all the nations of the world, real peace is an impossibility.

Canada can well be proud to have as its representative a man of such high principles and unswerving It is to be hoped that his words will not fall upon deaf ears.

The Alternative

THE CANDIDATE of the yet-unborn New Party in the Esquimait-Saanich hyelection, Mr. Glen Hamilton, has offered the voters a peculiar piece of advice, unless his words were distorted coming through his hat.

He is quoted as saying that the present drift toward what he described as reactionary forms of government can bring about a dictatorship of either the right or the left without the "reasonable alternative" offered by the New Party.

The voters will not have to reflect for more than a moment to discern that there is no drift in Canada toward reactionary forms of government; that the present government, at the right end of the political scale, is neither reactionary nor dictatorial in its aspirations and tendencies; that there is no danger of a dictatorship of the left if by left Mr. Ham-ilton means farther left than the New Party, and that the "reasonable alternative" offered by the New Party is regimentation more akin to dictatorship than any other party-except the Communist Party-would dream of imposing.

The New Party offers, according to the man who seems likely to be its leader when it is formed, complete to-grave security and jobs for everyone, ing the "hard core" of the unemployed, in a planned economy.

These are ideal aims, as no one will deny, but impossible to achieve without a greater degree of state control and direction than we believe Canadians villing to accept.

What can they mean but the heaviest of taxation, the greatest number of people dependent on the government in power for their bread and butter, the least incentive to do more or better, the least freedom from state interference in individual lives?

This is the "reasonable alternative" Mr. Hamilton offers — an alternative to completely imaginary

A Glossy Reply

MR. LESLIE PETERSON'S answer to the criticisms concerning lack of enough Canadian content in school textbooks is none too happy. It merely glosses the situation with generalities. One had expected something more positive.

The education minister implies that textbook revision has always been of concern to his department and that studies of this nature are a continuing development. The recommendations of the Chant commission, he says, merely endorse this program

The obvious answer to this is that the pace of revision must be mighty slow else the commission wouldn't have thought it necessary to speak urgently on this point. Nor would there have been public dissent had such revision shown material results.

Mr. Peterson says the use of Canadian textbooks "wherever possible" has always been part of his department's policy. Why "wherever possible?" In textbooks touching on Canadian history and the In mores of Canadian life and institutions it should As far as B.C. is concerned Mr.

Peterson should make it possible.
It is interesting to be told that new textbooks are being chosen for arithmetic and mathematics, and that a new Latin textbook written by Canadians has been authorized. This illustration begs the Mathematics and Latin neutral subjects which can scarcely offend no matter who writes them.

If he had said for instance that new history books. had been commissioned which would put the Canadian perspective in proper relation, and that all textbooks which emphasized other nations at the expense of Canada would be discontinued, he would better meet

Mr. Peterson's reply is disappointing. It suggests also that for all its hoasting about B.C. the Bennett regime does not object to B.C. school children absorbing foreign facts instead of Canadian facts.

Unfortunate Setback

VICTORIANS who enjoyed hearing and meeting Sir Edmund Hillary after his epic Mount Everest ascent will learn with regret of the slight stroke that has affected him in the Himaiayas. His condition is said not to be serious, but there will be fears this might put an end to the more strenuous aspects of his adventurous career.

Sir Edmund is andoubtedly the best known mountaineer in the world, with the additional and unusual distinction to his credit of having also explored the South Pole. Many unspoken good wishes will be directed his way with the hope that he soon recovers his customary vigor and physical powers. He has done enough to stamp his name indelibit on the annex of adventure but at 1 years. indelibly on the annals of adventure, but at 41 years would be extreme misfortune to be forced to abandon a?field he has made peculiarly his own.

Unstable World

It seems to me that this recent display of vandalism at Victoria High School, so shocking in its implications, is essentially a reflection on modern society as a whole rather than on any individual or group of individuals. And convenient though it would be one cannot shrug off juvenile delinquency as strictly acts of unadulterated hoodlumism. It goes far deeper than that. We should be parefacily honest with cutselless and seventhers the second of the control of the c perfectly honest with ourselves and speculate whether such seemingly senseless and wanton destruction is motivated by an unstable and insecure world . . . a world lacking in its basic realities Undoubtedly, the vandalism at Vic High could be attributed to a warped sense of venegeance, to irresponsible youth bent on "kicks." But is it quite that simple? Ian't this an oversimplification we find all too convenient and conformist? For the younger generation, life is not only an endless series of complexities, but also a madden ing array of contradictions.

On television, in the movies, in advertisements, on the universal political front, the relentless struggle for men's minds continues. Is there any wonder then that youth give vent to emotional outbursts that are sometimes turned upon society. I do not attempt to justify delinquency, only in some way to understand it.

Minority Group

The government seems to be very anxious to protect minority groups in the trade unions with Bill 42. Perhaps they would enact a bill to protect minority groups from having their taxes raised every time a school bylaw is passed. The people who voted against the hylaw will have to comply with the wishes of the majority and pay whether they agree or not, yet this same privilege is denied the trade unions.

To rule by a majority vote is the essence of democracy and regardless of what the money is used for it should be the privilege of all groups of citizens to settle their, affairs in this manner.

In the seventh heaven of the Mohammedans, each inhabitant is bigger than the whole earth and has 70,000 heads, each head 70,000 mouths, each mouth 70,000 tongues, and each tongue speaks 70,000 languages. This city of uncerthly glory is situated, surprisingly, not in Texas but in California where it is called Los Angeles. It is destined to serve as the eternal abode-if the money holds out-of the flanneled seraphim and spike-shod cherubim who play baseball for Gene Autry and Bob

After the Yankees played and lost their first series in the Eden of the West. Tommy Holmes wrote.

"To an observer with the Yankees, this series created a favorable reappraisal of the American League expansion move. If Bob Reynolds, Gene Autry, and their associated money men can stand the financial gaff for a few seasons, they'll see the Angela build a lucrative following. Dan Topping, who almost single handedly forced the issue last winter had the right idea. Los Angeles definitely is fertile two fears area.

"Next year the Angels, as tenants, will share Walter O'Malley's baseball Taj Mahal in Chavez Ravine, If they could have shared the Collecum with the Dodgers this season, this three-game series would have drawn 200,000 people instead of less than one-third of that figure. It has been a long aince baseball tourists have run into anything like the ticket apeculating activity outside Wrigley Field, except at world series time. Scalpers were asking and getting $15 and up for a pair of box or choice reserved seals."

in the Cow Pasture?

The answer, of course, is that Walter O'Malley cried.

Over my dead, if affluent, body!" Walter is owner of Dodgers and emperor of Southern California.

In St. Louis on Dec. 7, 1960, a date that shall live in infamy, O'Mailey beamed tenderly upon Autry and Reynolds through the smoke of his pure Havana filler and welcomed them to his dominion in cuddly tones and pre-mixed meta-

Why, asked some of the historians present, were the Pottsmorth with the production of the private of Angels forbidden to tread where 90,000 fools might rush in, bringing money? Because, baseball men told them, having two teams share one park was unsatisfactory.

Unsatisfactory to whom? It had been satisfactory to the York beat Kansas City 94.

Phillies and Athletics, the Cardinals and Browns, the Glants and Yankees for years. Well, came the lame reply, that was any owns ago when life was simpler; today there are many new complications, like agreeing on a common radio-television policy, for example.

Then how come it was going to be satisfactory for the Then how come it was going to be satisfactory for the Angeles had won four straight.

Then how come it was going to be satisfactory for the teams to share Chavez Ravine from 1962 on. Was life due to get simpler? There was no answer. Nobody said, "Well, you see in Chavez Ravine O'Malley gets the rent."

PCL Baseball

There is no way of estimating accurately how many hundred thousand dollars it will cost Autry and Reynolds to exist outside O'Malley's Gold Curtain this scason. It has been reckoned that the first-year investment in the new Washington and Los Angeles clube would come to around $5,000,000 ton and Los Angeles clume would come to around extended each, counting $2,100,000 for used playing talent, plus salaries, san beginning and travel, and the huge expense of building a business organization and farm system.

Larks win First and Second In Trans-Ganada Reliability Test

Out of 125 cars, 41 different makes and models, a Studebaker Lark driven by J. D. Young and R. Hillary of Toronto, fin-Ished the gruelling week-long test in first position, with L. Lalonde and J. Jones, also of Toronto, driving another Lark, finishing close behind in second place (provisional results), once again proving Studebaker-Lark performance against all cars regardless of make or size-no surprise to Lark

It will pay you to find out all about this award-winning, fullsize passenger car now-THE STUDERAKER-LARK.

Montreal to Vancouver B.C.I.T.F. Cross-Canada Rally May 1 to 6

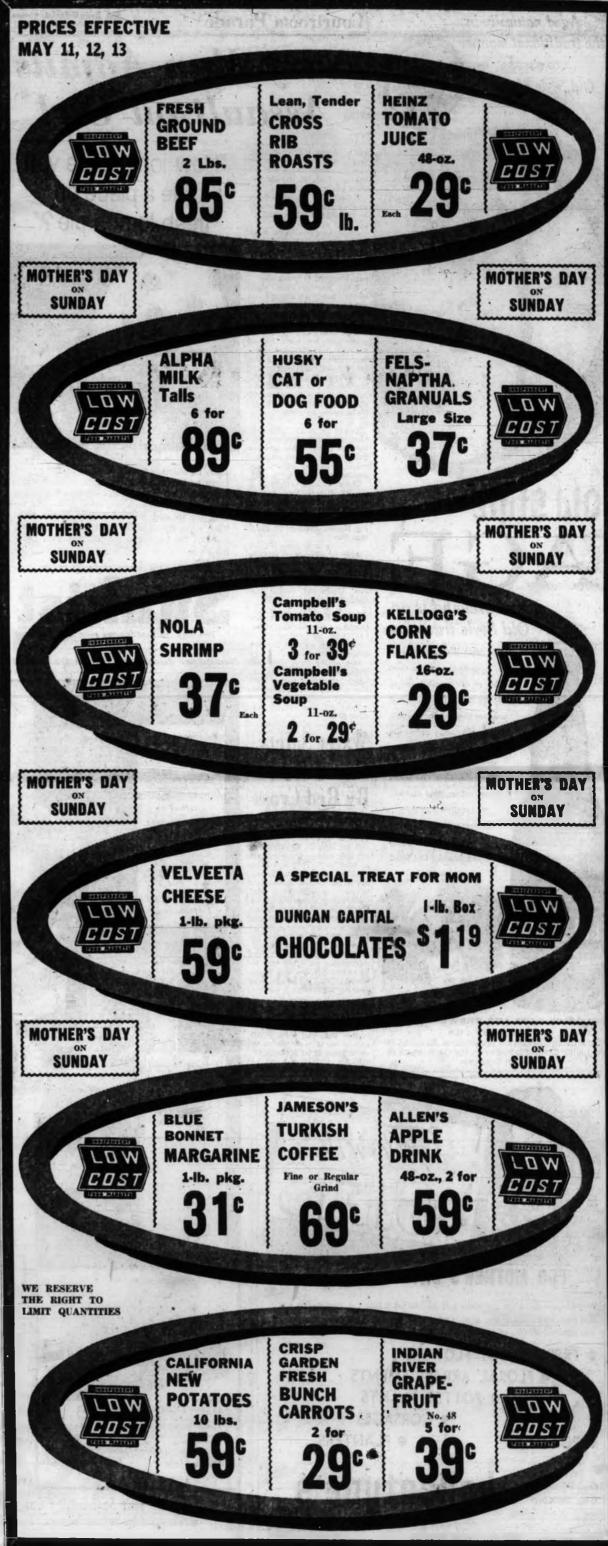

You too, have probably noticed the growing number of Studebaker Larks on the road—sedans, hardtops, station wagons, taxis -325,000 of them in North America.

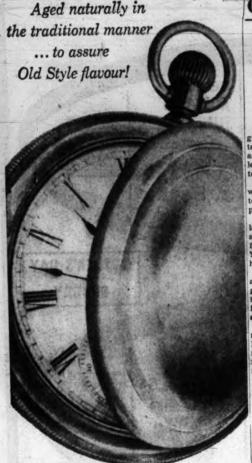

Any Lark owner can give you many reasons why he or she selected the Lark—over so-called big cars, little cars, Canadian or foreign. You'll get comments like these: "I like the roominess and comfort. Nothing else I tried came close." "This Lark 6 sure has get-up-and-go. It's nice to feel you've loads of power to spare." "I'm convinced the Lark has better materials and workmanship—thicker gauge body metal and superior interior finish for instance." "From my very first demonstrated to the standard superior interior finish for instance." and superior interior ninan for instance." From my very first demonstration I had a real feeling of confidence in the Lark, easy steering, sure hraking—a solid feel." "The Lark is a car I can live with—its established style will never 'date' it." "I liked what my dollars would buy in initial cost and operating costs. And this Lark V-8 is surely a front-runner." Lark owners will also tell you "be sure to arrange a demonstration ride"—and that's good advice!

Old Style is calmly brewed, with no concern for time. Faithful to our original recipe, carefully selected barley, hops and yeast are blended, brewed and, finally, put away to mature slowly in quiet ageing cellars. Brewed in this traditionally hurried manner, Old Style's brilliant colour, fine flavour, and mellow taste mature naturally. Slower brewing is the reason so many people prefer Old Style. old Style

Navy Man Admits Assault on Girl

A young sailor pleaded guilty in city police court yesterday to a charge of common assault arising from the molesting of an 18-year-old Victoria girl last Friday.

Robert Alan Durston, RCN, was remanded in naval custody to May 16 for a probation report, and sentence.

Carol McMillan, 1564 Rockland, told the court accused approached her as she waited for her bus on Douglas at Yates, and started talking to her. She tried to avoid him.

her. She tried to avoid him.

When her bus came along and she boarded it accused also got on, sat beside her, and con-tinued talking. He followed her from the bus at her stop, Fort and St. Charles.

"He put his arms around e," she told Magistrate William Ostler, "and tried to kiss me. We fell, and I started to scream. He put his hand over my mouth, and then someone came out of a house nearby came out of a house nearby and yelled, and he ran away. He had been drinking."

Young Victorian Keith Ford also was remanded for sentence to Friday, after pleading guilty to theft of an outboard motor, controls, battery and gasoline tank.

These articles, property of Gordon Bransen and with a total value of $410, were stolen about Oct. 1, 1960, from one of the boats on property adjoin-ing Harbor Marine, 39 Song-hees Road.

Also in city court William Clarence McKinney, HMCS Naden, pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor. The 19-year-old youth was fined $20.

Bonner Says Trail Plan 'Alien to Civil Liberties'

TRAIL (CP)-City council met the RCMP Tuesday in an effort to solve recent bombing outbreaks blamed on Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

Council decided to suggest to Attorney-General Bonner consideration be given to Issuing certificates to persons of Doukhobor origin identifying them as properly taxpayers

It will also suggest curiews on persons not pussessing certificates and production of the certificates by persons of Doukhoboi origin applying for welfase benefits, motor vehiclelicences and other privileges.

Mr. Bonner said in Victoria he thought council might want to reflect on the proposals which he described as farreaching and "alien to the concepts of teaching citizens civil Liberties in Canada."

The council also directed the city solicitor to draft a hylaw allowing farm produce to be sold in the city market only by property taxpayers.

Garibaldi Decision Overdue

OTTAWA (CP)-The federal overnment has received no reply to its offer of two years ago to take over Garibaldi Park in British Columbia, Resources Minister Dinsdale sald Wednes-

He told the Commons that established policy demands the rovincial government mak the approach to have the land designated as a national park, and it must provide the land free of all encumbrances." Mr. Dinsdale said the federal with the same that invited such an approach from the B.C. government but "there has been no reply at all in two years."

He was replying to Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) and William Payne (PC Coast-apilano) who sought an end to sickering over recreational de-velopment of the park.

Four of the previous subswere of First World War construction. The others were German U-boats which surrendered at the end of the Second World War.

R.C. WORRY

Canada's first two sub-marines, the CCl and CCl, were purchased by B.C. for $1.150,000 from a Seattle ship-yard out of concern by pro-vincial authorities over lack of cnastal protection when Canada entered the First World War.

The two boats were on order for the Chilean navy when the B.C. government arranged the Canadians.

The Canadians inspected the boats, turned over the cheque and sailed the submarines to Esquimalt where they were handed over to the navy. For three years the CC1 and CC2 carried out patrols off the B.C. coast and their presence is credited with deterring German incursions into these waters.

TO EAST COAST

In 1917 the two submarines were transferred to the east

The submarines were used for training in the Bras D'Or Lakes and in 1920 were sold for scrap.

Two other submarines given to the RCN by Britain in 1919 remained in service until 1922.

RUN Atlantic Command has the services of three Royal Navy submarines for anti-sub-marine warfare training.

"This is not a partisan thing this is something that must be done," he told a public meeting in Colwood Community Hall. "And not only that, you have a chance to strengthen a great team."

Mr. Hellyer was speaking in support of David Groos, Liberal candidate in the May 29 Esquimalt-Saanich by-election. Some 80 persons at-tended the meeting.

"Mike Pearson is going to put together a team of men who are going to get Canada back on the rails, men like your candidate. The Liberals are not only the official op-position, but they offer the only real alternative. "Election of the government candidate would not only elect a member who would be redundant, but it would also give the government the im-pression that you feel it is doing a good job," he con-tinued.

Old Favorites Best

In looking over yesterday's column, I realized that while it pro-

column, I roalized that while it provided fairly full instructions for setting out tomato plants raised at home, it didn't give much guidance for the fellow who buys a dozen plants and bungs them in the ground. First, we'd better go shopping for tomato plants and here I think it is wise to stick to varieties with a reputation for ripening their fruit early, for some kinds, while doing well in a hot season, won't ripen their fruits if this summer should turn out cool and rainy. Mustang, Early Amateur, Sutton's Best of All, Early Bush Beefsteak (not just plain Beeksteak) and my old favorite, Rhode Island Early, are all good performers under adverse conditions.

* * * In selecting your plants, I think you will have better luck with the smaller specimens rather than the big fellows. The greenhouse op-erators don't sow all their seeds in erators don't sow all their seeds in one go but spread it out over a month or more, and it is the younger plants from the later sowings which will settle down best, with all the resiliency of youth, in their new home. Newcomers to gardening will often tend to think that the bigger and other the piant, the closer it is to bearing fruit, and will often seek out and buy plants already carrying a truss of open blossoms. Such big, in-blossom plants will usually abort their flowers after being set out in the open sarden.

in-biossom plants will usually abort their flowers after being set out in the open garden.

There are several other advantages in selecting the smaller plants. For one thing, they haven't had time to exhaust the soil in the box and won't be suffering from mainutrition, nor are they too crowded in the seed flat. For another, you can cover a little plant with a hotkap after setting out—something you can't do with the taller specimens.

I deal plants should be short and stocky, with no long expanse of bare, leafless stem. If the stems are hairy and with a pinkish tinge and if the leaves are covered with a slight fuzz, so much the better, for these are the signs of glowing health. Avoid plants with a yellowish tinge in the leaf color and those that are becoming thin and spindly at the top. Cheapest way to buy plants is by the dozen, with the dealer digging them out of the seed flat for you and wrapping them in newspaper to be carried home. The most expensive way is potted up singly in Jifty pots or in veneer plant bands. In between, you will sometimes find plants offered by the half-dozen, growing in aluminum foil containers just big enough for six plants.

The dug-up, newspaper wrapped plants will grow away perfectly well if you plant them out as soon as you get them home, but they go downhill very rapidly if planting is delayed. Plants actually growing in containers can be held for some time but must be kept watered and given plenty of sunshine and air. sunshine and air.

Plants growing in individual con-sumable containers such as Jiffy pots can be planted out without any pots can be planted out without any root disturbance for you plant the pot and all. The theory here is that the walls of the pot decompose in the soil, feeding the roots as they rot, but I should point out that this hasn't worked out in every case. I know of instances where the pots were planted in too-dry soil and, failing to decompose, the plants became root-bound and sick. I think it is a wise precaution to water these pots in precaution to water these pots in generously, with a little fertilizer in the water to speed up decomposition. The Soused Colonist stunt—burying a big wad of soggy wet news-paper deep below each plant—work just as well for purchased plants as for home-grown specimens.

Critic at Large Theatre in Awtul

The theatre is truly in an awful fix. Robert Whitehead, president of the League of New York Theatres, has said: "We truly believe that additional burdens will bring about the extinction of the living theatre as we have known it, perhaps as early as next season." Them's strong words and the terrible thing is that they are tarrible, except the season. terribly accurate.

Mr. Whitehead's statement was made in an effort to get Mayor Wagner to eliminate the city five-cent tax on tickets. It should be eliminated. But that wouldn't help much If the U.S. government clamps down on the tax-deductible theatre ticket, certainly if it clamped down on the charity tax deduction which is the theatre party, the theatre would truly be doomed. * *

Even without these disasters, the Broadway theatre seems headed for Everything to do with the the-atre is too high-priced—playwrights, actors, stagehands (especially stage-hands). musicians, property, scenery, lighting, theatre rent. Ticket prices at $7.17 for straight shows and $8.57 for musicals are outrageous, but actually they're not half as out-rageous as they ought to be for shows when straight dramas cost

Nothing should cost that much.
But it will continue to be outgrageously expranging. rageously expensive to produce un-less everyone from musicians to actors make sacrifices and this is about as likely as snow in July. Obviously, at current prices no one is going to take risks on Broadway and since risk and experiment are neces-sary — Eugene O'Neill's "Strange sary — Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude," Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," Rodgers and Hammerstein's were immensely profitable—the U.S. theatre is going to decline not only in vigor but in profits.

Off-Broadway is not much better, and costs, while far lower than Broadway, are still outrageous. I think genuine freshness and vigor and originality are going to have to come from out of town. All over the U.S. little theatres and some professional repertory theatres are springsional repertory theatres are springing up—thousands of them—all training actors and directors and amateur

This is a pity because new plays, far from the rapacity of Broadway unions, can be tried out for next to nothing.

By Rudolf Flesch

A few weeks ago I wrote about an article in Harper's in which Dr. Banesh Hoffman of Queens College, New York, made a devastating attack on "The Tyranny of Multiple-Choice Tests." Or so it would seem to you and me. But the test-makers, of course, assuming the unassailable stance of expert professionals, denounce Dr. Hoffman as an utter fool and ignoramus and serenely go ahead with their multi-million dollar business.

Writes Dr. Henry Chauncey, president of Education Testing Service, the largest company in the field: "A full statement explaining the reasonableness and efficiency of each question is available. The subject lies outside Mr. Hoffman's field."

You see what happened?

You see what happened? Dr. Hoffman quoted several test items where the sup-posedly wrong answers were actually right. He proved con-clusively that the whole busi-ness is completely unscientific. Did that faze the test-makers? Not at all.

They simply closed ranks and announced smugly that (1) nobody but an expert has a right to criticize them. (2) they themselves will take care of all "mistakes." and (3) their tests sell by the millions and therefore can't be

Luckily, royalties from Mario's records have made it possible to allow $1,200 a month for the support of the children. But now that their grandmother is so ill, no one quite knows who will look after the youngsters. When Mario's fine singing voice brought him to Hollywood a decade ago, who could have foreseen so much tragedy for him and his family?

Things are perking for "Cleopatra." Eva Gabor rented her house to producer Walter Wanger. Sharman Douglas rented hers to director Joe Mankelwicz. For the pattern of Krupp history is not a pretty one.

Reichstag Seat

Fritz Krupp, who took over in 1887 when the great Alfried ed, did tinker with politics. He had a seat in the German Reichstag for a time, although he never made a speech. More important was the German Navy League, a pres-sure group subsidized by German Navy League sure group subsidized by Krupp and backed by a Krupp-controlled newspaper to push for a battle fleet. The Kaiser got his fleet and Krupps built into the Villa Huegel to direct the sale of guns to 52 nations, the development of the U-boat

An ironle twist in city financing has singled out Vic-toria's victims of the depreso as the haplest benefactors the victims of the recession Council's, unpremeditated stirring of the ashes of the "Great Depression" came when it closed off its budget adjustments by accepting City Manager Cecil Wyatt's suggestion that the 1961-62 winter works program be paid for from land sales revenue.

Almost without exception. the land which produces revenue fell into the city's hands for non-payment of taxes during the depression

During the past 10 years the hardship of the 30s has poured a cool $1,635,000 into city cof-fers through sale of reverted lers through sale of reverted lands and was the principal keystone on which the city's present pay-as-you-go fiscal policy was built

Although much of the re-verted land was held by specu-lators who had plunged into city real estate during the

"roaring 20a," much was also lost by the small owner, and in a few cases families lost their homes to the city as well.

City council is prepared to put up some $50,000 this year as its share toward solving the community's winter unemployment problem, and the money will come from the assets of the dispossessed.
